  - d) Develop relevant local collections that satisfy patron needs for content and format.
  - e) Meet member library expectations of fairness in resource sharing.
  - f) Analyze collections for gaps in critical areas.
  - g) Coordinate collection development where practical.
- iii. Evaluation Method(s):
  - a) Ongoing review of and response to anecdotal comments to ensure continuous improvement.
  - b) Periodic review and analysis by the advisory committee to achieve outcome-based evaluation of initiatives and improvements.
  - c) Survey member libraries regarding the effect of MHLS support and tools in the collection development of their library.
  - d) Advisory committee will determine ways to validate patron satisfaction
- iv. Annual Progress Report:
  - a) Worked with advisory committee throughout the year to review and respond to member library issues and input, to ensure continuous improvement in the area of cooperative collection development, provide adequate access to popular items, and meet member library expectation of fairness in resource sharing.
  - b) On-demand, libraries were assisted with collection analysis to provide data to use in purchasing materials to meet local needs.

<sup>1</sup> GENERAL DEFINITION – Cooperative collection development (CCD), as defined by the ALA’s A Guide to Coordinated and Cooperative Collection Development Among Libraries, is “Cooperation, coordination or sharing in the development and management of collections by two or more libraries making an agreement for this purpose.”

- c) Coordinated expansion of digital collection development, resulting in 55% increase in digital materials checked out vs. 2012 by: Acquiring additional funding; Validating patron satisfaction through eBook user survey based on national ALA/OverDrive survey resulting in improvements to the consortium collection; Responding to patron needs by collecting and purchasing digital title requests to provide access to relevant collections.
- d) Administered access and negotiated consortium subscriptions to 7 cost-shared databases to support member library collections, providing budgeting information in advanced for library planning.
- e) Conducted Special Collections Survey resulting in a comprehensive look at how member libraries are diversifying collection development and services offered to appeal to a maximum number of residents, building on the traditional collaborative consumption model to provide experienced based education and entertainment opportunities. This information is used in trainings to help all member libraries understand that library service may look a little different than it has in the past.
